

This part meets or exceeds the original manufacturer's specifications.

Although this unit may appear to be different than the one removed from the vehicle, it is totally compatible and will interchange with other equipment designs.