

Traditionally thought of as a Dealer only product, First Line is offering a resource to identify and source turbo hoses for the independent aftermarket.

First Line offers a technical layout for every application, making sure you chose the right part first time. No matter what your application you will be able to quickly and easily supply the correct turbo hoses, reducing the need to source from the OE dealer. This save time and is a cost efficient way to offer customers quality service at an attractive price.